Reviews

This book is definitely not effortless to start on looking at but really exciting to see. It really is simplistic but surprises from the 50 % from the pdf. I am just effortlessly can get a delight of looking at a published book.

AN INTEGRATED APPROACH FOR ONTOLOGY BASED PERSONALIZED MODELING

LAP Lambert Acad. Publ. Mai 2010, 2010. Taschenbuch. Condition: Neu. Neuware - Populations are aging and prevalence of chronic diseases, persisting for many years, is increasing. Chronic diseases such as CVD, T2DM and obesity have high prevalence and develop over the course of life due to a number of interrelated factors including genetic predisposition, nutrition and lifestyle. A computerized model focused on organizing knowledge related to genes, nutrition and three chronic diseases, CVD, T2DM and obesity has been developed for the Ontology-Based Personalized Risk Evaluation for Chronic Disease Project. This model facilitates to identify interrelationships between concepts. One method, called transductive neuro-fuzzy inference system with weighted data normalization (Song and Kasabov, 2007) has been used to evaluate personalized risk of chronic diseases. A framework to integrate the personalized model and the chronic disease ontology has been developed with the aim of providing support for further discovery through the integration of the ontological representation in order to build an expert system in genes of interest and relevant dietary components. 256 pp. Englisch.
